More than half of U.S. women of reproductive age live in states that are hostile or extremely hostile to abortion rights.

Supportive states have no more than one type of major abortion restriction. Middle ground states have 2–3 types of major restrictions, hostile states have 4–5 and extremely hostile states have 6–10.