

In 2018, state policies enacted to support reproductive health far outweighed the number of restrictions

