

State policies enacted in 2017 to support reproductive health came close to the number of restrictions

