

To lead healthy lives, adolescents need accurate and practical information on how to practice safe sex before they become sexually active.

In Kenya, sexuality education often omits this information entirely, or simply begins too late.

Among surveyed students aged 15-17

42%
of males

15%
of females

have had sex

